Why a Calendar Beats Reacting

Reactive releases almost always arrive late. A calendar means data, photos and spokespeople are ready before journalists go looking.

Q1 · Jan–Mar

- Mid-Jan return to work: newsrooms hungry for fresh news
- Back-to-school & new-year consumer angles
- Half-year results (Feb): publish your milestones

VRITIMES

Q2 · Apr–Jun

- Federal Budget (usually May): react with small-business commentary
- EOFY on 30 June: tax-time and planning angles
- Mid-year customer data

Q3 · Jul–Sep

- New financial year from 1 July: plans, hires, pricing
- Partnership & funding announcements
- Prep for spring events

Q4 · Oct–Dec

- Black Friday (26 Nov 2027) & Cyber Monday
- Christmas shutdown from mid-Dec: publish before
- Year in review & 2028 outlook

The T-14 to T+3 Rule

A working timeline for every moment:

timeline

T-14 research & data · T-7 final release + photos · T-3 pitch journalists · Day 0 publish & share · T+3 coverage recap

97%

of actively trading businesses are small businesses

They all compete for the same news days around Budget, EOFY and Christmas. Preparation decides who gets a run.
